Please vote for: The JURASSIC COAST TRUST

The Jurassic Coast Trust is transforming into the management organisation for the prestigious Jurassic Coast World Heritage Site, which runs for 95 miles across England's south coast, between Exmouth's Orcombe Point and Swanage's Old Harry Rocks.

The World Heritage Site is important to us in Exmouth as we are the custodians of the western end of the Site and its spectacular Triassic-era red rocks. This makes Exmouth Internationally important and presents us with opportunities to share the oldest part of the Jurassic Coast with the world.

Our Trust wants to grow itself to include as many people from the local community as possible with opportunities to volunteer, enjoy and learn from what is on our doorstep. We need your support and involvement so that we can look after the Jurassic Coast and share its incredible stories with our local communities, visitors and the world.

Vote for the Jurassic Coast Trust and you are voting for looking after one of the world's most important places. The money will be used for conservation, education, and community-focused projects now and into the future.

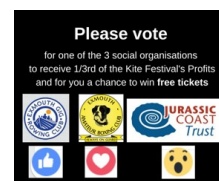

The benefits will be for the wellbeing of everyone who lives here and loves the Jurassic Coast.
